

CHAPTER 5 CONCLUSION

After analyzing the novel, I conclude that intrinsic approach can be used to analyze Shopaholic to the Rescue by Shopie Kinsella. I apply showing and telling method to know the characterization of characters in this novel. The characters that I analyzed are the main character, Becky Bloomwood, Luke and Suze. They support each other to show their characterization. Becky is a care person, creative and guilty feeling. Luke is an adult person, and care person. And Suze is a emotions person, and anxiety. The situation, condition, place and the time in Las Vegas support the function of the setting. The characterization supports the plot and the setting in this story. The characterization also creates the chronological this the story in the novel.

I use Conflict theory by Georg Simmel to analyze this novel as an approach. Based on Conflict theory, that conflict was destructive of old views, choosing to see conflict as positive, with the ability to strengthen social relations. The main characters, Becky tries to care and responsible with the problem in her family and try to solve the problem. It proves that the theory of Conflict by Georg Simmel appropriate to analyze this novel.

It is explained that Becky caring person, exactly to her families. When she knows the problem, she tries to calm if sometimes she feeling guilty. Because in the earlier part Becky as a main character that made this conflict or problem, she busy with her world until forgot if her families also need attention.

That is why the Conflict theory suitable with this novel, because everyone also have a problem. Whatever the conflict with families, friends, work team or with anything must have conflict.

This novel told about family problem. Family is a primary social institution of a society, existence of every social institution is depends on the functions carried out by that social institution.

The moral teaching of the research is every people have family. Family is everything and important until the end. And in the most important thing is parents. We born from family and we must keep our family as it should be. Never forget to pay attention and love your family. Don't let your new world make you forget your house, which is family. When you get the problem in your family, please try to solve problem soon. Do not let our families separate just because of ignorance we underestimate the problems of a family. Big or small a problem let alone related to our parents, please still help solve it as much as we don't until we ignore it. If the problem is not resolved your family may not last long if we are ignorant as children. To conclude, by understanding the characterization and sociology on the research, the readers can easily see the theme of the novel.
