

CHAPTER 5

CONCLUSION

In this term-paper, the focus of the problem is the pursuit of The American Dream from Ate, Mae, Reagan, and Jane. American dream is a dream to live better for people who live there. They do all the ways to reach The American Dream because the competition is so tight. They have to through the tough

The main character is Jane Reyes who works at Golden Oaks. Ate helps her to find a job. She works as surrogate mother in there.. Because Ate has an experience as a nanny, she knows that job can make someone's life better. In fact, Ate can buy many properties. Jane has to live at the Golden Oaks. She cannot meet her daughter, it makes Jane sad. The money that she earns from Golden Oaks is not worth for her longing to Amalia. Unlike Jane, Ate still works very hard for her children. She also misses them, but she does this for her children's life.

Based on the analysis of chapter 3 and 4, Jane, Ate, Reagan, and Mae are impacted by the American dream. They have thought that it is easy to get money in America if they are successful. The impact of the American Dream that we can see from the characterization of the characters. Because they have to work hard to have a better life, one of the characters becomes an ambitious person. She wants her dreams come true and she forgets her health. She gets a lot of money but she feels ill and she has to be hospitalized.

From the explanation above, the writer concludes that the theme in this research is The Pursuit of American Dream That Led to Conflict. This is because the way Jane, Ate, Mae, and Reagan to achieve the American Dream are quite same. They work very hard to get a lot of money. Jane works hard because she wants to have a better life with her daughter in America. Ate has worked for a long time in there, she has many experiences about the job. So she always helps the other immigrants who need the job. She works hard for her children. Because she wants to live happily. Reagan works at Golden Oaks because she does not want to depend on her father. She wants to have her own income. Even though she has to give her bonus to Jane and forget her dream, she still works hard. Mae Yu, the owner of Golden Oaks has a vision to advance her company. She has new projects with her fiancée, the McDonald project. She wants her company can grow. Besides that, she also has a plan that she will classify the premium host. Because she knows that her clients really like the smart and beautiful hosts.

All the characters try to achieve their dream. Because of their hard work, they earn money. Jane uses the money to rent a good apartment for her and Amalia. Amalia lives in a good apartment with Ate while Jane works at Golden Oaks. After she quit from the Golden Oaks, Jane works as a nanny in Mae's family. Ate buys some properties and give her bonus to her children. She also tries to help Mae has a new project to develop the Golden Oaks, but she has to be hospitalized because she is sick. And Reagan gives her bonus to Jane. She helps Jane to meet Amalia. She cannot reach her dream in this day for helping Jane.

According to this research, the writer hopes that this research will be useful for the readers and people who are interested with the American Dream. It is potential for the next research. Since there is no research that use The Farm, people will be able to use this research by using another approaches such as psychological approach, or another sociological approaches.
