Analyze the concept of loyalty, betrayal, and revenge can be used as a support in the Psychology of Literature. In psychology literature, there has a behavior theory and loyalty, betrayal.

Christine's loyalty arises because her thought that Mina was a kind person and cared for her. Therefore, Christine as Mina's secretary is loyal to Mina. She always care about Mina, Christine always prepared what Mina needed. Even when her family need Christine, she preffered to accompany Mina. But one time, Mina accused Christine, of that incident Christine wanted revenge to Mina. As in chapter four analysis about Christine betrayal, she becomes like that because she think she had been loyal to Mina all this time but Mina lied and accused her. So Christine decided to take revenge on Mina because she was disappointed.

The moral teaching of this research is everyone can be loyal to others. But we must also be vigilant. We also shouldn't expect anything from others, because everyone can't do the same for us. Don't be too fascinated with someone because we can't see someone from the way they talk because sometimes someone can lie. Then if we have done something good to someone else and that other person is doing evil to us, there is no need for revenge. Because revenge is only a waste of time. It's better to do more important things than revenge.

According to this research, it is potential for the next research to analyze The Secretary novel through other approaches or concept. This research also can introduce the student of English Language and Culture Studies about loyalty, betrayal and revenge in literary work.
