

CHAPTER 5

CONCLUSION

After analyzing this novel I can conclude that the intrinsic approach can be used to analyze this novel. I have applied showing and telling methods to know how the characterizations of some characters. The characters whom I analyze are Alicia Berenson and Theo Faber. Then by using the concept of setting, especially the five function of setting, I can know the setting of this novel. Also, by using the concept of plot, I can analyze the plot of this novel from exposition until resolution. After analyzing the characters using the telling method and showing method. I can conclude that the main character in the novel, Alicia Berenson has several characters, such as anxious person, traumatic, self-harm and lovable. Beside Alicia, I also analyze the other characters used to strengthen the main character and is important in the characterization of the main character including Theo Faber as someone who is a smoker, traumatic and hypocrisy person.

“The Silent Patient” novel plot consist of of five parts, namely exposition, complications, crisis, falling action, and resolution. These five sections are completely contained in the novel while for the setting, the writer analyzes three setting theories namely Setting as the background of the action, Setting as the antagonist, and Setting as the revealing character which can be concluded that novel “The Silent Patient” is set at Alicia’s House, Royal Hospital, The Grove, The royal hospital as Setting as background for the action. Cambridge and the Grove as setting as antagonist and last setting is Camden Town market as setting as revealing character.

Then, I also conclude that the extrinsic approach can be used to analyze this novel. I have used psychoanalytic approach to analyze this novel. From the extrinsic approach I can show the cause of the personality disorder, the types of personality disorders, and the effects that happened because of the personality disorder happened to the main characters in this novel. In this novel, there are four aspect that I can analyze from using extrinsic approach, the first one is the types of personality disorder reflected in the characters, the causes of personality disorders that appear in the main characters, the effects of action done by the characters and characterization, plot, setting and theme can be developed through intrinsic and extrinsic approach. The types of Alicia and Theo personality disorder are paranoid and antisocial disorder, the causes of their personality disorder is because of their terrible childhood experience. Because of Alicia and Theo personality disorder there are a criminal act that they do such as murder, dishonesty, impulsiveness, lack of empathy and harming others.

Based on the plot in chapter three that I have analyzed, it can be concluded that there is one theme in this novel, there is the prolonged of personality disorder not only theoretical elements but also about how the process of the main characters personality disorder appear. The main characters manage to find the evidence through the four aspect of prolonged personality disorder then the main characters turned into criminal act after they try to find the evidence. According to this analyzes, further analysis have the potential to examine the novel “The Silent Patient” by using the method of telling and showing or it could be through other approaches or methods about psychology personality disorder in literary works. This research can also be used as a comparison to write better studies.

The moral teaching of this research is parents is very important in child development. A parent is their child’s first teacher and should remain their best teacher throughout life. Then we have a problem and we cannot bear it alone, we must learn to trust others and share with them. Do not endure it alone or we will end up in depression. The last is human who always need love, we must understand the definition of commitment. According to this research, it is potential for the next research to analyze “The Silent Patient “novel through other approaches or concept. This research also can introduce the student of English Language and Culture Studies about personality disorder, crime in literary work. This research also can use as a comparison to write a better analysis.
