CHAPTER 5
CONCLUSION

In this last chapter, I want to explain the data of the research that I have done. This research is conducted to find and explain connotative meaning behind utterances and explain why it cannot translate literally, and also to classify what type of connotative meanings is in some utterances. I found some utterance that contains words, phrases and sentences that contains the denotative and connotative meaning in "Doctor Sleep" movie script by Mike Flanagan. In the first formulation, I have explained each data of its denotative and connotative meanings. The connotative meaning found in this film script shows the conflict between the shining people and the evil cult True Knot. Evil creatures always chasing people who shines to gain their steam. This one covers first formulation.

There are different kinds of connotative meanings in "Doctor Sleep" movie script, namely positive, negative, and neutral connotative meanings. There are 16 data with neutral connotative meanings that I found. The second is negative meanings with 13 data, and the last is positive meanings with six data. These connotative meaning are translated based on my own interpretation and the context of the utterances. Based on my result findings of the research, in total there are 35 utterances that cannot be translated literally, and "Doctor Sleep" movie script dominantly uses neutral connotative meanings. This one covers the second formulation.

To explain what words in "Doctor Sleep" movie script that cannot be translated literally, I connect the connotative meanings that exist to real life, how if it happened and what effect it would have on humans and life if it happened. Most of the data I found could not possibly happen in real life, so it could not be translated literally. This one covers the third formulation.

For the further researcher who wants to conduct research on denotative and connotative meanings, the further researcher expected to understand the denotative and connotative meaning well. Denotative and connotative meanings usually have a linking meaning, and it will help to understand the connotative meanings even more.

The further researcher can also choose other objects to conduct. However, if the further researcher is interested to use "Doctor Sleep" movie script as the object, they might use other objects, such as figurative language or use semiotic analysis.
