

CHAPTER 5 CONCLUSION

After analyzing the script of Frozen II movie, I had the option detect the intrinsic and extrinsic elements that construct of story. The element became one singular unity that shows the reader about the strong attached elements that built a good story. It was convinced by the excellent plot that would be enjoyed by the readers. In the Intrinsic element, I mentioned some points, including characterization, setting, plot, and theme. In the extrinsic element, I mention the moral values represented through Elsa and Anna in Disney Frozen II. As known that Frozen II movie script was produced by Disney which often presents kid movies that presented many moral values for educating children. All mentioned elements were discussed and proved by the example that was in the form of Frozen II script. The script that was cited in this research became the main source of data analysis. Here, a lot of examples were taken to accompany the researcher's explanation.

The first findings there are several ways characterization conveyed by the author, by showing method and Characterization through Dialogue and Characterization through Action. Elsa's characters are brave, leadership, independent, and sacrificing. Anna's characters are optimistic, believe, quick-witted, and cheerfulness. The second finding is that based on the analysis of Frozen II Movie Script by focusing toward moral values shown by Anna and Elsa as the main characters it tends to be presumed that there are several kinds of moral values that were related theory from Buzan as follows; Bravery, Honesty, Steadfastness, Sympathetic, Cooperativeness, Thankfulness, Kind Hearted, and Love and Affection.

The third finding is that which moral value that is more dominant in Frozen II movie script that was conveyed by main character. As known that this movie is for children so that is why it will give moral value that educate children. Between listed moral value Bravery, Honesty, Steadfastness, Sympathetic, Cooperativeness, Thankfulness, Kind Hearted, and Love and Affection. The most dominant moral value presented by those main character is bravery value as it can be seen in the moral findings that showed majority value presented in the movie were value of bravery. Bravery is the capacity to go to bat for common decency in tough spots. People need bravery to face their fears and overcome the obstacles in their life.
