

CHAPTER 5

CONCLUSION

Chapter 5 contains answers to research questions (which are already discussed in chapter 4) but is written briefly per point (not per sub-chapter). This research aimed to identify of grammatical mistake found in the movie's script of Bad Boys for Life.

Analysis of sentence mistakes spoken by Mike shows that there are 32 sentences that contain errors. Analysis of sentence errors spoken by Marcus shows that there are 26 sentences that contain mistaked. Analysis of sentence mistakes spoken by other characters shows that there are 11 sentences that contain mistakes. Grammatical mistake tends to be shown in mike's utterance. This is because Mike is a black person, and black people often speak slang language that does not follow grammatical rules. Then followed by Marcus's utterance with the same background with Mike. And the least grammatical mistake tends to be shown in other character's utterance this is because the environment often uses slang language.

Based on the findings, I would like to offer some suggestions to be considered in learning language. By analysing grammatical mistake found in movie script, I suggest for language learners to aware of the utterance that contains grammatical errors and distinguishing sentences that contain mistakes and do not contain mistakes. Try to learn through different sources such as songs, books, etc. Mistakes found in movie script can be influential for language learners in learning language in movie, because in these days many people learn language in variety sources not only from book. This is because there is very little interest in reading in this era, so people try to learn in another more pleasant sources such as songs, films, internet, games, etc.

Learning movie is such a fun source to learn language because movie provide us to use English in a real context. Real context here means the use of English as it is done in this era. In this era, people start ignoring grammatical rules since the number of slang languages that have sprung up. I suggest with the rampant use of slang language, but do not neglect grammatical rules because grammar skill is important in every aspect of life in formal situation for example in education, leadership and also social life to employment opportunities.
