

CHAPTER 5

CONCLUSION

After examining the movie script of Lady Bird, it is appropriate to use the intrinsic approach to examine the movie script and its underlying narrative. Characterization in the movie script is examined using the showing approach. The characters that are analyzed using this method are the three member of McPherson Family; Lady Bird, Marion, and Larry. The main character of the story, Lady Bird, she is selfish, ignorance, denial, childish and temperamental. The other important character is Marion, the mother of Lady Bird. Marion is caring and actually shares the same personality with Lady Bird, they have a very strong personality and they are temperamental, while Larry as the father of Lady Bird is also called the good guy by Marion has calm and patient personality which makes Lady Bird feel like her mother hates her and her father loves her more. The story's plot depicts the developing issues and occurrences, with various plot turns that enhance the storytelling. The movie script's events are broken down into stages by the storyline, which was examined in this study. The setting of a scene refers to the locale where events take place over the course of multiple scenes in a story. The settings of place are in the Motel in the Central California, 1994 Toyota Corolla, McPherson's House, Lady Bird's Room and In The Church In New York also supports both characterization and plot. Setting of time specifies the exact time mentioned in the story, and setting of atmosphere represents the mood and situation of characters in several events of the movie script.

In this movie script, the selfishness of the character Lady Bird is comprised of two elements: self image and egoistic. Lady Bird who wants to make the life she desires in her head become real that is why she tends to ignore and being ignorance to the other people because she needs to build her self image and it makes her egoistic. Lady Bird never knew that she is selfish because she thought everyone does not care about her and she always put herself first and did not see people around her who are suffering to afford her needs.

The family conflict that happened in this movie script finally finds its happy ending because the character get the development and realize that they are actually just needing more communication and attention to each other. Lady Bird and Marion who are temperamental always get the wrong idea to think together and it makes them can not have a peaceful conversation, Lady Bird always assumed that her mother hate her because she never support her but actually she does support her in her own way and the main reason why she is not happy when Lady Bird decided to study aboard is because she does not want to be separated with her daughter, not because the intuition fee. Lady bird who is finally study aboard prove it to her mother that she can reach what she wants and she is fine in there because she is still in her belief and now accept that her name is not Lady Bird, she tends to accept who is she without being ashamed by the other people.
