The principles of liberal feminism may be seen in Jo March's attitude and conduct, as well as what she says and does to stand up for herself as a woman in her day. Society is known to be the main reason behind Jo March's feminist values, a stereotype that claims women merely need to stay at home and wait for a wealthy man to marry them, then dedicate their entire lives to their spouse. The results is Jo March's character influences her perspective on self-liberty and freedom in society.
