

CHAPTER V

CONCLUSION

After analyzing this novel I conclude that the intrinsic approach can be used to analyze this novel, I apply showing and telling methods to know the characterizations of some characters. The characters that I analyze are Sarah and Fred. Then by using the concept of setting, especially the five functions of setting, I later know the setting of this novel. Also by using the concept of plot it can be known the plot of this novel from exposition until resolution.

Then I also conclude that the extrinsic approach can be used to analyze this novel. I use concept of dissatisfaction in physiological needs to explain about Sarah's dissatisfaction and I use the concept of unfaithfulness in love and belongingness needs, which is caused by lack of the satisfaction needs. The characterizations, setting, and plot of this novel support the concepts of dissatisfaction and unfaithfulness. After I analyze it I elaborate it between the intrinsic and extrinsic approaches. It is proved that the theme of this novel is dissatisfaction and unfaithfulness.

It is explained that Sarah Goldsmith is Sam Goldsmith's wife who feels bored with her husband, because he cannot satisfying her. The meaningless feeling in her life and her marriage to Sam makes her unhappy and it causes her to seek a happier life than what they have passed. Then, she meets with the another man whose face and his personality more interesting than her husband, finally makes her unfaithful to her husband. She thinks Fred is more than Sam and he could make her happy when they are together. Sarah's life has changed to be more happy and meaningful after Fred comes in her life. Until she makes a decision to leaves her family that she can lives happily with him.

The moral teaching of this research is controlling our emotional and feeling. If we are already married we should have to love our partners with all of our heart and do not see any flaws of our partner as weakness because no one is perfect. We do not see the weakness in our partner as our reason to go away. All the problems that occur in a relationship should be discussed well and make the resolution in a relationship in order to avoid separation. Do not let our ego and a desire lead us to leave for get a better partner of our partner because marital relationship is sacred relationship.

According to the research, it is potential for the next research. Since there is no research that use The Chapman Report, people will able to use this research as comparison in order to write better analysis in this novel using another approaches. One of possible approach to next research is psychological approach which using concept of family institutions.
